The NV Porto Reserva White is a blend of white wines aged in very old oak casks with an average age of six or seven years. It was produced with a blend of over 15 white varieties from field blends. It has a bright amber color with some orange tints, a nutty nose with some spiciness from the wood, a touch of varnish and integrated sweetness. It has 105 grams of sugar. This is also bottled to order, so I tasted an unbottled sample.
